The Bible

Think of the Bible first as a history book that carries a spiritual message. It is a history from the beginning through about AD 60, and it reports men's interactions with each other and with God.

More accurately, it is a library of books recorded by some of those men. The historical authors were either (a) eyewitnesses to the events reported, or (b) careful interviewers of eyewitnesses, or (c) careful compilers of such firsthand reports.

As history, the Bible has been confirmed as accurate in hundreds of instances. Indeed, it is the most accurate record of ancient history that exists. It has been verified by other historical writings, by archeological artifacts, by skeptics trying to disprove it, and many other things. It has never been shown to be wrong.

As a spiritual message, it reports God's dealings with mankind. That includes cases of messages from God through certain men called prophets. Often the messages predicted things that would happen in the future. Later historical records of those prophecies actually happening assure us that they were indeed from God, for no man could have made such predictions. On the other hand, some of those predictions have not yet come true.

As history, the Bible also contains letters written by some of its characters, wisdom literature written by certain wise men, and poetry, along with the prophecies.

The Bible does not argue for the existence of God. Rather, it assumes that the audience is wise enough already to know that God exists. Indeed, it begins, "In beginning, God created ..." and later says, "The heavens declare the glory of God..." (Ps 19:1a)

Nonetheless, even the reader who does not start with that presumption, if he will take the Bible as the serious and accurate history that it is, can rationally conclude that God exists. That is because there is no rational explanation that excludes God for how such an accurate history book could have been written by a number of men over a space of about 4,000 years who never knew each other or knew that they were part of a project to contribute to such a library.

Moreover, some of the verified historical events that it records were such that cannot be explained apart from God. Most particularly, the report by people who for three years walked and talked with Jesus of Nazareth that he died, was dead in a tomb for three days, and then came back to life, walked and talked with them again, and later rose into heaven — that report cannot be easily dismissed if one is honest about the historical accuracy.

Now for believers, the Bible makes certain claims about itself. The New Testament says of the Old Testament that "all scripture is God-breathed and useful for teaching, evidence, and correction, for instruction in righteousness" (2Tim 3:16). In the NT, Jesus says to his apostles, the authors of the NT, "... when He, the Spirit of Truth, has come, He will guide you into all truth" (Jn 16:13a), and about them he said, "He who hears you, hears Me; he who rejects you, rejects Me; and he who rejects Me, rejects Him who sent Me." (Lu 10:16) Hence, the NT is authorized by Jesus.

Thus, for the believer, the Bible is the authorized word of God, and it has authority in the believer's life in every area that it addresses. That includes the history it reports, any science that it touches on, any psychology or sociology or biology or geology it mentions, and especially our relationship with God and our duties before Him.

Summary

Read the Bible as an accurate history. Take note of the spiritual message that it also carries. Then, perhaps it will be said of you, "...when you received the word of God which you heard from us, you welcomed it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which also effectively works in you who believe." (1Th 2:13)

The One-Year Parallel Chronological Study Bible

(NKJV with corrections)

The entire New King James Translation in 365 studies arranged in the order of the events, with parallel reports displayed and compared side by side

Compiled and edited by Frank DeRemer

Ph.D., Programming Linguistics generally following the organization of the NIV/NLT One-Year Chronological Bible © 2000 Tyndale House Publishers, Inc., modified according to The Chronology of the Old Testament © 1993-2004 by Dr. Floyd Nolen Jones, and as the text required. The gospels follow the Red Letter Harmony of the Four Gospels © 2004, also by Dr. Floyd Nolen Jones.

This "ChronoBible" is chuck full of aids to understanding the narrative in depth. But first and foremost it is for reading — every day for the whole year. Please, especially on your first read, do not get distracted by the aids: ignore the italics, the highlighting, the links to maps, etc., and just read the history of God's dealings with man.

After you get familiar with the overall layout and organization, you can begin to try to master the aids. Here's hoping that they will eventually prove useful to you.

Translation Notes

In my humble opinion the (N)KJV translators overuse 'which', according to Strunk & White, The Elements of Style. It should be used only descriptively. When the Narrator seems to intend the clause restrictively, I have changed 'which' to that.

[italics] means italics is not in the original, although the NKJV translators did not italicize it as they should have.

[italics] is extra information, commentary or observations inserted by the editor.

Yyy [not xxx] means the NKJV uses xxx, but Yyy is what the original says.

Yyy [xxx] means the NKJV uses xxx, but Yyy is the preferred rendering; e.g.:

- Prefer 'land' to 'earth' because moderns tend to think of planet Earth although the original audience would have thought of the land we stand on or, at most, the surface of the globe.
- Prefer 'expanse' (NASB) to 'firmament' (NKJV) because stretching is involved (Job 9:8, Ps 104:2b, Is 40:22, Is 42:5, 42:12, Is 48:13, Is 51:13, Zec 12:1).
- Prefer 'the grave' to 'hell' (for Hebrew Sheol) because the Old Testament has almost nothing to say about the afterlife. Correspondingly, the New Testament uses 'Hades' to translate Sheol in quotes from the OT, so 'the grave' is used for Hades, too.

Within a book "M:N" refers to chapter M, verse N; e.g. in Genesis "1:1" refers to Genesis 1:1. In a chapter "vN" refers to verse N in that same chapter.

Red text is God speaking, or an angel stating a message directly from God.

Bright green text is an angel giving information, but not a message from God.

Green text is a human(s) speaking.

Blue text is imported from elsewhere for chronology or because it parallels the main text.

Highlighting Legend

Note: I use "YHWH" rather than "the LORD" throughout, because it is a proper name, and personal to Him, not a title.

names of YHWH, His attributes, etc., light, and other notable local issues, spiritual heaven, also foundation(s), darkness, expanse, physical heaven(s).

land, ground, places, cities, countries,

water(s), river(s), sea(s), flood(s), plants, fruit, food, (growing) seasons,

wood, forest(s),

time-indicating words/phrases,

YHWH's covenants, also iron,

feasts to YHWH,

days of YHWH, YHWH's judgment, His wrath, His fury, His appearing, also genealogies (all go back to YHWH), quoted texts, the remnant,

messages about text moved for reasons of chronology/parallels,

Disclaimer

The editor is a lay Christian, not a Bible scholar. That can be both an advantage and a disadvantage.

It is to the reader's advantage in that I ask the same questions you do as you read, and I have added the aids that I find useful as I read.

It is to the reader's disadvantage in that I can make some mistakes that I would not if I knew the Bible backwards and forwards, as well as Hebrew and Greek.

On the other hand, "scholars" are more often than not experts in only one area of the Bible, so they too make mistakes — even committees of scholars. Also, they are often unwittingly beholden to theories that they were taught by their professors, and they by theirs, and so on, back many generations — theories that they have not really thought through freshly for themselves, but continue to repeat because of their professional environment.

I too am, of course, subject to theories that I was taught from childhood, but as I do this project of compiling this chronological Bible, I find that I am being freed of such assumed theories. My prayer is that I have displayed the text in such a way that you, the reader, can benefit from the text itself without being unduly influenced by any observations and opinions that I inject.

Just keep in mind that everything in [italicized square brackets] and footnotes are this author's opinions or un-inspired observations.

If you find yourself in disagreement with any observation here, I suggest that you consult TheNarrowPath.com, where Bible teacher Steve Gregg treats all the controversies in detail and from every point of view.

Usage Hints

You can always zoom in to see details in these PDF documents. If the page is too large when initially displayed, you can zoom out. See the + and - and xx% controls in the tool bar.

ctrl+f allows you to search within a PDF.

The navigation pane to the left allows you quickly to move to other dates and sub-headings, as well as to see an outline of the entire document. The Table of Contents (TOC) at or very near the end gives another outline and allows you by a click to go to particular pages.

Underscored words or phrases in blue type are almost always hyperlinks that take you to related texts, a map, or other helpful information. Be sure to explore.

The TOC link in the footer is supposed to take you to the TOC, but the links may not work, subject to a fix by Microsoft, Adobe, and/or the supplier of your PDF reader.

Introduction to the Historical Books

by Steve Gregg, Summer 2011

I. The Jewish Canon of Scripture

- A. The Hebrew canon is divided differently from that of the Septuagint (the latter arrangement is followed by English Bibles). There are three divisions:
1. Torah (Law) [Notwithstanding, Genesis-Deuteronomy report history, too.]
 2. Nebi'im (Prophets) [Almost all report some history, too]
 3. Kethubim (Writings)
- B. The Prophets divide into two groups:
1. Former Prophets (Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings) and
 2. Latter Prophets (Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and “The Twelve” [our “minor prophets”])
- C. What we classify as the “Historical Books” are those of the “Former Prophets” as well as a few from the “Writings” (Ruth, Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther)
1. The “Former Prophets” are so called because their authors were prophets, or preserved prophetic traditions.
 2. Originally, Samuel, Kings, and Chronicles (two volumes each in the LXX), existed as single volumes.

II. Old Testament History Divisions [1451-442 BC, 1009 years]

A. Conquest and occupation of Palestine as “amphictyony” (“a league of neighbors”) — 355 years

1. Joshua (1451–1425 BC — 25 years?)
2. Judges (1425-1095 BC — 330 years)

B. The Monarchy Period — 510 years

1. Samuel / 1 Chronicles (United 1095-975 BC — 120 years)
2. Kings / 2 Chronicles (Divided 975-586 BC — 390 years)

C. Babylonian servitude (606-536 BC — 70 years)

D. Restoration Period — 94 years

1. Ezra (536-467 BC — 69 years)
2. Nehemiah (455-442 BC — 13 years)
3. Esther (519–508 BC — 11 years; fits within the time covered in Ezra)

III. Supplemental and parallel sources mentioned in the books

The Book of Jashar (Jos 10:13)

The Book of the Acts of Solomon (1Ki 11:41)

The Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel (1Ki 14:19; 2Ch 33:18)

The Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah (1Ki 14:29)

The Book of the Kings of Israel (1Ch 9:1 / 2Ch 20:34)

The Account of the Chronicles of King David (1Ch 27:24)

The Book of Samuel the Seer (1Ch 29:29)

The Book of Nathan the Prophet (1Ch 29:29/ 2Ch 9:29)

The Book of Gad the Seer (1Ch 29:29)

The Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite (2Ch 9:29)

The Visions of Iddo the Seer (2Ch 9:29)

The Book of Shemaiah the Prophet and of Iddo the Seer (2Ch 12:15)

The Annals of the Prophet Iddo (2Ch 13:22)

The Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel (2Ch 16:11)

The Book of Jehu the son of Hanani (2Ch 20:34)

The Annals of the Book of the Kings (2Ch 24:27)

The Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah (2Ch 27:7)

The Sayings of Hozai (LXX: “the Seers”) (2Ch 33:19)

The Laments (2Ch 35:25)

The Book of the Chronicles (Ne 12:23)

The Book of the Records of the Chronicles (Esther 6:1)

The Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Media and Persia (Esther 10:2)

IV. Truthfulness and Objectivity of the records

A. Warts and All

“The Bible does not idealize people or events, but sternly and impartially evaluates everything, including great national heroes, thus helping the reader to learn from both good and bad examples. It tells us what to do, and what to avoid.” (Bishop Alexander)

The historical books provide “excellent examples of God’s Providence by showing how He exalts and rewards the righteous for their virtue, has mercy on repentant sinners, while at the same time punishing stubborn sinners as their righteous Judge. In Biblical description of individual lives and events, the reader is able to see qualities of the Great God Whose mercy is endless, Whose wisdom is incomprehensible, Whose power is infinite, and Whose righteous judgment is inescapable. No secular book about history is able to convey such spiritual perspective on events.” (Bishop Alexander)

B. Archaeological confirmation

Babylonian Chronicle: a collection of clay tablets inscribed with Babylonian cuneiform script, telling of events between 615 and 595 BC They tell of Nebuchadnezzar’s conquest of Palestine, his receiving of tribute, his capture of Jerusalem, and the deportation of Jehoiachin (2Ki 24).

Black Obelisk of Shalmaneser III: A record of the military victories of Shalmaneser III (859-829 BC), prepared about 841 BC. It reports his conquering Jehu king of Israel. It depicts Jehu bringing tribute and kissing Shalmaneser’s foot (2Ki 17:3; 18:9).

Cylinder of Cyrus: now displayed in the British Museum, this 9-inch cylinder is dated at 538 BC. It reports Cyrus' conquest of Nabonidas and the capture of Babylon. It also tells how Cyrus returned captives to their homelands. It says, "I gathered all their former inhabitants and restored to them their homelands" (2Ch 36:22-23 / Ezra 1:1-4).

Hezekiah's Tunnel: This 1748-foot-long tunnel was constructed in approximately 701 BC, connecting Jerusalem's only fresh water source, the Gihon Spring (outside the city walls) to the Siloam Pool inside the city (2Ki 20:20 / 2Ch 32:30).

Moabite Stone (or Stele): Measuring 2'x3', and shaped like a tombstone, this monument memorializes the military achievements of King Mesha of Moab. Mesha's revolt against Israel, and Omri king of Israel (cf. 1Ki 16:23; 2Ki 1:1; 3:4-5), are mentioned in it.

Sennacherib's Prism: This six-sided clay prism records Sennacherib's siege of Jerusalem, and his conquest of forty-six [46] towns and villages of Judah (2Ki 18:13). It says that Sennacherib shut up Hezekiah as a caged bird in Jerusalem (2Ki 19:8ff).

Shishak's Inscription: Inscribed on the wall of the courtyard of the temple at Thebes, this inscription lists a number of towns that Shishak conquered in Palestine. Shishak ruled Egypt from about 945-924 BC, and Scripture tells of his invasion of Judah in Rehoboam's time (1Ki 14:25 / 2Ch 12:9).

Tel Dan Stele: This stele fragment is associated with King Hazael of Syria (2Ki 8:7-15) in the late eighth century BC and is about 12 inches tall. It contains a reference to "the house [i.e., dynasty] of David."

Warren's Shaft: A passageway from the Gihon Spring, apparently to bring water inside the city walls when the Jebusites occupied Jerusalem. The Shaft is probably the access route used by David's men, led by Joab, to invade and conquer Jerusalem (2Sa 5:8 / 1Ch 11:6).

Unlike the pagan religions, which are built upon mythologies, the religion of Yahweh is based upon concrete historical figures and occurrences that interlink and interact with other known historical entities, persons, and events. This is also the case with Christianity. Both (Biblical) Judaism and Christianity are faith-systems based in the actual historical events that prove their authenticity. The Historical Books of the Old Testament bear testimony to those OT events.

"The Biblical account is first of all the record of the nation's encounter with God and the response of its people to that encounter. These books are, therefore, much more than a compilation of historical facts. They offer inspiration, instruction in the ways of God, lifestyle models to follow and to avoid, extensive moral and spiritual lessons, and faith-building insights into God's faithfulness to His people." (L. Thomas Holdcroft)

V. Historical Setting

A. International Scene

Egypt — Though formerly a major power, went into a period of decline after the exodus. In the 1000 years covered in the historical books, Egypt rarely figured into the story. The Egyptian king Shishak invaded Judah once in the reign of Rehoboam (1Ki14:25-26). Later kings of Judah sometimes were inclined to trust Egypt as an ally against other major powers that threatened them. Josiah was killed in battle while trying to interfere with an Egyptian attack on Carchemish (2Ch 35:20-22).

Aram (Syria) — Though never a major world power, the Arameans were significant, both as nearby adversaries of Israel's, and as the catalyst that sparked Assyrian expansion into a world empire. It was in reaction against invasions by Aramean nomads that Assyria finally struck back, and moved to annex the neighboring Aramean countries, in the ninth century BC.

The first foreign power to invade Israel, in the Book of Judges, was the king of Aram. Having their capital city in Damascus, multiple Aramean rulers made trouble for Israel in the reigns of Saul, David, Solomon, and many of the kings of Israel and Judah. During the reign of Ahaz (of Judah), Aram and Israel joined forces, desiring to conquer Judah, and force the formation of a three-nation alliance against Assyria.

Assyrian Empire — The Assyrians expanded into world empire status in three stages:

- 1) Tiglath-Pileser (1115-1076 BC) made certain aggressive encroachments on neighboring territories, but his gains were not permanent;
- 2) Ashurnasirpal II and Shalmaneser III (884-824 BC) expanded Assyria's borders to the Mediterranean, conquering Israel, but not Aram;
- 3) Tiglath-Pileser III (745-727 BC) adopted a strategy of conquest, deportation, and colonization that expanded Assyria's control. His successor, Shalmaneser V (727-722 BC), conquered Israel's capital city, Samaria, and deported the population—ending the history of Israel as a separate kingdom from Judah. Sargon II (722-705 BC) carried out further campaigns in Palestine (Isa 20:1). Sennacherib (705-681 BC) established Nineveh as the capital of the empire, and staged an abortive siege of Jerusalem. Esarhaddon (681-669 BC) subdued Egypt and declared himself to be "King of kings of Egypt". Six decades later, the empire ended when the Medes captured and totally destroyed Nineveh (612 BC).

Babylonian Empire — Having been a major world power in earlier times (i.e., the time of Abraham), Babylon was restricted, in the era of the judges, by conflicts with Assyria. Chaldean Babylonians came to power in Babylon in the ninth century, and the empire that ensued (also known as Chaldea) eventually displaced the Assyrian Empire, in the reign of Nabopolassar (626-605 BC). Nebuchadnezzar II (605-562 BC) defeated the Egyptians at Carchemish, but did not annex Egypt. He established Babylon as “the Mistress of the World”. He destroyed Jerusalem, in 586 BC, and took most of the Jews into captivity.

Persian Empire — Persia arose as a nation in the seventh century BC, but was dominated by the Medes until 558 BC. Cyrus the Great (550-529 BC), a Persian, emerged as the conqueror who would bring about dynamic growth of the Persian Empire. Cyrus conquered Babylon in 536 BC [sic 539 BC], making Persia the new world power. Cyrus issued a decree [in 536 BC] allowing foreign captives in the empire to return to their native lands. This led to the return of the Jewish exiles who rebuilt Jerusalem, under Zerubbabel, Ezra, and Nehemiah — the latter being sponsored by the Persian king Artaxerxes (465-429 BC). Esther was married to the king previous to Artaxerxes, known in scripture as Ahasuerus, but is better known as Xerxes I (486-465 BC).

B. Religious Scene

Henotheism: Believing that there are many gods, but aligned to only one per nation.

Dagon — Scholars once thought the name meant “Fish-god”, but now tend to think it means “Grain-god”. Though worshipped throughout the Fertile Crescent in earlier times, in the period of the historical books, Dagon was the god of the Philistines. Samson destroyed a temple of Dagon in bringing about his own death. At a later time, the Ark of the Covenant was captured by the Philistines, and stored, briefly, in a temple of Dagon — resulting in the supernatural decapitation of the Dagon image. Few specifics are known about Dagon worship.

Baal — The name means “Master”, “Lord”, “Possessor”, or “Husband”. Among the Canaanites, Baal was depicted as son of El, who was a nebulous supreme deity. Baal was a generic identification of various regional nature deities responsible for agriculture and the fertility of livestock. In some contexts, he is said to be the son of Dagon. Worship of Baal involved immoral sexual rites.

Asherah / Ashtoreth — “The goddess of the Sidonians” (1Ki 11:5). It is not clear whether Asherah and Ashtoreth were identified or were regarded as two separate goddesses, though scholars incline toward the latter view. Both are regarded as the consorts of Baal. Asherah poles were erected next to altars to Baal (Judges 6:25). These poles were carved of wood, and described as “obscene” (1Ki 15:13). They are frequently mentioned in the same context with prostitution and sodomy. The name “Ashtoreth” is derived from Astarte, the Phoenician goddess of love, fertility, and war — and is also identified with Venus, Aphrodite, and Diana in the classical world. Usually depicted in statuettes as a nude woman, her worship involved lewd sexual cult rituals.

Molech (or Milcom) — “The abomination of the Ammonites” (1Ki 11:5). A fire god commonly worshiped throughout the ancient near East and North Africa, by Canaanites and Philistines, Arameans, and Semitic peoples, and later, Phoenicians. Represented as a human figure with the head of a bull. It is thought that a bronze statue had a fire built within it to turn it red-hot. The practice of sacrificing children to this demon was called, in scripture, “causing [one’s] son or daughter to pass through the fire” (Le 18:21 / De 18:10 / 2Ki 16:3; 17:17; 21:6; 23:10; etc.).

Chemosh — “The abomination of the Moabites” (1Ki 11:7). Chemosh was a god associated with the Semitic mother-goddess Ashtar. Like Molech, the worship of Chemosh involved the sacrifice of children. Based upon Judges 11:12, 24, some scholars believe Chemosh is the same god as Molech — though it is argued to the contrary by some, from 1Ki 11:7.

VI. Correspondence between Old Testament History and Church History?

A. Lifetime of Moses (Pentateuch) = Lifetime of Founder (Jesus and the Gospels’ history)

1. Delivered his people from bondage
2. Established the Covenant
3. Original guide, prophet, and priest to the people

B. Lifetime of Joshua = as the appointed successor to the Founder, corresponds to the time of the Apostles.

1. Direct appointment continues authority in an undisputed successor
2. Implemented the spread of the movement, providing leadership in the second generation
3. Operated in the same miraculous power as their predecessors (Moses and Jesus)

C. Judges = the Theocratic Amphictyony (church prior to institutionalization)

1. No one appointed to succeed Joshua or the apostles in their office
2. No centralized political authority over God’s people — individuals and tribes were not answerable to each other, unless they committed crimes actionable under God’s Law
3. Each was to follow the Word of God as he saw fit (Judges 17:6; 21:25)
4. When disobedience occurred, God Himself, as their King, would bring discipline
5. Human leadership was provided by ad hoc charismatic individuals, who served in the emergency
6. The death of a leader did not create a vacuum, and there was no mechanism for succession
7. Cycles of revival, testing, crisis, warfare

D. Monarchy = Institutionalized Authority in the church

1. Was viewed by God as a rejection of His Kingship
2. Introduced political machinery, and a levy (tax) to support it
3. Introduced hereditary succession, meaning charisma would no long be the qualification for leadership

E. Divided Monarchy = Reformation Movement(s)

1. Retained all of the evils of the monarchial system
2. Introduced rivalry and warfare between factions [denominations]

F. Babylonian Captivity = ???

Yet to come for the church? Or something experienced individually or as groups?

G. Restoration = ???

The church is to be restored to its original purity

To automate changes to all references:

I recorded a macro to replace all "page=115" with "page=116". Then I edited the macro text, duplicating the relevant code, to add 114->115, ..., 1->2. Only problem was that 40, e.g., got hit twice, by 40->41 and then by 4->5, so I modified each change: 114->n115, ..., 1->n2; then replaced all "page=n" with "page=" to remove the "n" markers that prevent multiple hits. Seems to work! Code below.

[[[However, each Replace All results in a dialog box that I have to dismiss manually -- 115 dismissals (RTNs) -- because I don't know how to insert into the macro a Dismiss (Yes) after each. I hope I can find out how before I get ready to process all the Word ment. Then, too, I have the HTML files to do the same to, but I can do that with Word too, if I have too -- and probably will.]]]

Thanks for your willingness to help. Maybe I'll have a harder problem for you next time! :-)) --Frank

Ah, the wonders of Google searches. First search, first item, told me to add Application.DisplayAlerts = False at the beginning of the macro and Application.DisplayAlerts = True at the end, to automate the Yes answers. Looks like I am ready to IncrementHyperlinks in all the documents. Yeeeeeee-Haaaaaa!

To see all hyperlinks:

In Word Select ALL the document (Ctrl+a) and Shift+f9 shows all the hyperlinks (but not the # between .pdf and page=).

Re: broken hyperlinks:

Found at: <http://wordfaqs.mvps.org/HyperlinkProbs.htm>

Paul DeBrino has reminded me of another issue that causes Microsoft Word to change and perhaps break your hyperlinks, by altering the link from an absolute to relative path or vice versa, when saving your Word document.

After creating a hyperlink in Word, hovering over that hyperlink displays your intended path. However, once you click Save, Word may change the link to a path that is relative to the Word document's location, a virtual path that begins with .../

To prevent Word from changing your hyperlinks, take the following steps:

1. Click Tools | Options (in Word 2007, Office Button | Word Options; in Word 2010/2013, File | Options).
2. On the General tab, click the Web Options button (in Word 2007 and above, this button is at the very bottom of the Advanced section of Word Options). [[[Now File | Options | Advanced | (fourth line from bottom) Web Options | Files | Update links on save]]]
3. In the Web Options window, click the Files tab.
4. Clear the check box for "Update links on save."
5. Click OK to save your preferences.

[[[Word2010: File> Options> Advanced> (at bottom)Web Options> UpdateLinksOnSave: OK, OK]]] MS-inserted link prefixes:

Problem is: Word STILL adds the prefixes to the links in the PDFs!!

Add hyperlinks to Steve's notes at the end of Isaiah.
